

In Geography, Elm and Pine created a river to help us understand that water flows downhill. We saw the force of the water move soil, bits of trees and stones. As the water slowed down it began to meander off the plastic as gravity worked to help it flow to the lowest point.

